

IACP Community Builder Awardees 2023 Announced

Coralville, Iowa – May 11, 2023: IACP is proud to announce six IACP Community Builder Award 2023 recipients at the IACP Annual Conference & Trade Show at the Hyatt Regency in Coralville, Iowa.

Frontline Supervisors are the linchpin of the community-based human service industry. From spearheading extraordinary service delivery for vulnerable Iowans to constantly seeking ways to improve the accessibility, transparency, and coordination among their organization’s employees, exceptional Frontline Supervisors fervently pursue the vision that one day, all Iowans will live, learn and work in their community of choice.

To recognize the essential role of Frontline Supervisors, in 2018, IACP developed the Community Builder Award. Each year, the awardees have been celebrated at the IACP Annual Conference & Trade Show. Community Builders play a critical role in the lives of 30,000 Iowans who receive community-based services, and we are honored to display and commemorate their efforts.

The IACP Community Builder Award 2023 recipients are Jennifer Renderos, Optimae LifeServices; Ashley Perez, ChildServe; Francesca Byczynski, Balance Autism; Ashleigh Dinkel, Mosaic in Central Iowa; Elisha Greve, Imagine the Possibilities; and Jennifer Cremers, UI REACH.
